Currently I work as a project manager in the printing industry, but am looking to move into a new career as a web developer. Combining my personal passions for technology and puzzle/problem solving with experience as a project manager, there isn't a project that I will not be happy to tackle head on. Utilizing my experience with languages such as: Javascript, CSS, HTML, and React.Js I can work with a project at any stage and see it through to completion.